Storm causes school closure, power outages

■ Schools expected to reopen Wednesday, as town recovers from one-two punch of high winds and heavy rain

By Steve Marschke

It was deja vu all over again, as Yogi Berra would say.

West Sacramento couldn't help but be reminded of the fierce storms of January as its first real storm of the new rainy season descended this week, closing school on Tuesday and leaving isolated street flooding, downed trees and power outages.

The big difference this time was extremely high winds, reaching a peak Monday night and laying low tree branches and some whole trees.

School officials cancelled school early Tuesday morning only to see sunshine later in the day -- a break forecasters say will only be temporary between storms.

School was closed for a variety of reasons, said superintendent Dr. David Miller.

"We had seven of our nine schools without power," he commented Tuesday afternoon. "Only Westmore Oaks and Elkhorn have power right now."

Miller said power was still not back as he spoke (and district offices remained closed), but crews were working to fix the situation by Wednesday. He said that school would probably be open by Wednesday in West Sacramento, and that any further cancellations will be announced on loca news stations. If cancellations are not announced, residents may assume schools are back in session.

The district was also troubled by some downed trees (including one which toppled and caused some damage to district offices on Westacre Rd.) and by some street flooding.

"The power lines and trees were down and it was just a dangerous situation," said Pat Flint, president of the school board. "Also, some of our teachers in outlying areas had difficulty coming to the schools because of the flooding."

*What goes up must come down

West Sacramento's semi-official Christmas tree (above), placed at the corner of Jefferson and West Capitol near La Bou restaurant, blew over in extremely high winds Monday night, and remained in that undignified position most of the day Tuesday.

The tree was, however, placed back upright by Tuesday night, reports Jeff Henry, one of a number of Crystal Court residents who sponsored the tree.

Mention Christmas in West Sacramento and you may hear the automatic response "Crystal Court."

Residents of that West Sacramento street (off of Lagoon and near Linden Road in Southport) have a reputation of having the best outdoor Christmas light display in the city.

They are also among the most energetic volunteers helping to collect food donations for the annual West Sacramento Christmas Basket Project, which puts together holiday meals for the needy.

"They're beautiful people," said Helena Helmold, director of the Christmas Basket Project. "They have an elegant display of lights. And last year, they filled up my one-ton van seven times with food they collected, and they're aiming to beat that this year. They even built a special box on wheels they can collect food with."

The neighbors are also responsible for purchasing this year's public Christmas tree, a 20-foot cedar placed on the corner of Jefferson and West Capitol near La Bou restaurant. With a discount offered by Riverside Christmas Tree Farm, the huge tree cost a little over $100 and was lighted in a special ceremony last week.

Can't miss it.

Correction: Bayside article re-printed

A number of readers proved they were paying attention last week, calling to point out that an article on Bayside's "Gainsborough" development planned for West Sacramento did not continue from page one to page seven, as promised.

Instead, the last part of the article vanished into the ether.

The News-Ledger apologizes for the production error. Here it follows in its entirety, edited for changes in verb tense:

By Steve Marschke

A development project called "probably the largest subdivision that will take place in Southport in the near future" was discussed at a workshop Thursday by the West Sacramento Planning Commission.

The "Gainsborough Project," championed by the Bayside Southport JV partnership (which includes partner David Stroud), covers 310 acres just south of the Southport Industrial Park Property. It lies on the north side of Marshall Road, west of both Allan Ave. and Marshall Rd.

Plans call for 1,378 single family homes, some multi-family housing, an eight acre elementary school site, and 18.9 acres of park areas.

The Gainsborough Project occupies almost an entire "village" -- one of four such planned for the 7,000 acre Southport area by the city's Southport Framework Plan.

Commercial services to serve this village, however, are planned for just north of Gainsborough in the south part of the Southport Industrial Park property. City planners will have a chance to approve the project's proposed map at Thursday's public hearing.

City planning director Steve Patek joined partner David Stroud and city planner Steve Rikala in discussing the project with the News-Ledger two weeks ago.

"The actual physical development of the property is tied to everything else that has to happen, including the (planned) Palamidessi Bridge," said Stroud. "Soon, the city council will be hearing a 'resolution of intention' (from Bayside, Southport Industrial Park and a second residential builder) detailing a bond proposal for next year."

The bond proposal would cover construction of the bridge as well as the construction of a major new road connecting the residential project to that new bridge, so that Gainsborough will have minimum impact on Jefferson Blvd. traffic flow.

"Initial access for this project will be off this road," added Patek, "although there will probably be some emergency access to Marshall Road."

Stroud said that the project will be built in phases after

New school name picked

The Washington Unified School Board has chosen a name for the new elementary school planned for Linden Road in Southport, calling it simply "Southport Elementary School."

The choice came unanimously Tuesday night after some discussion. Other possible names brought forth by the district included Linden Road Elementary, Port View Elementary and Touchstone Elementary.

It was suggested by community members to name the school after either Cristobal Colon (Christopher Columbus), local businessman Vince Frugoli, the late district employee Louis Marquez or former president Ronald Reagan.

Two major retail centers troubled

■ "Big R" Country West Shopping Center is one of several major properties subject of foreclosure proceedings

By Steve Marschke

Two major West Sacramento retail centers are among several local properties involved in foreclosure proceedings, according to records filed with the Yolo County Clerk.

One of these involves property at 2909 to 3067 West Capitol Ave., which is the Country West shopping center ("Big R") at Harbor Blvd. and West Capitol. According to a spokesperson for the trustee handling the proceedings, about $272,000 is delinquent on a $300,000 Sumitomo Bank loan for the property, which is owned by the Engstrom Family Trust represented by Clarence "Kip" Engstrom.

A pair of messages to Engstrom's local real estate office have not been returned.

Ella Castillo of Commonwealth Land Title in San Francisco, which is handling the legal proceedings for Sumitomo Bank, said Tuesday that the default was "still active" but no foreclosure date has been set.

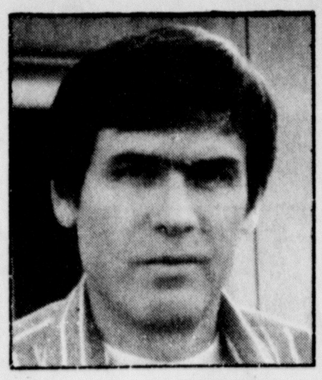
The Engstrom Family Trust also remains in default on property at 3609 West Capitol Ave., said Castillo. A Sept. 12 public notice showed the trust delinquent $172,884 on a $6.9 million loan from Sumitomo Bank on that property, located near the I-80 overpass.

The Riverbend Market center on Sacramento Ave. is also apparently in financial trouble. Owned by Riverbend Partners (listed as Clarence Engstrom, James Engstrom and M. Craig Nagler), Sumitomo Bank caused a notice of default on that property to be recorded Oct. 16. The notice claimed a $241,342 delinquency on a $1.8 million loan as of September. Further information was not available at press time.

The lender has not set a trustee's sale date on any of the three properties, and the defaults could be "cured" before they are foreclosed upon.

Some questions which don't have any real answers

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

"Here, Dad," said my daughter as she handed me one of those cute little trendy undersized books, "I want you to read this."

"What's it about?" I asked, observing that it wasn't much bigger than my hand.

"It's called The Book of Questions and it'll really make you think."

"About what?"

"About your attitudes, morals, beliefs, all kinds of things."

"No thanks," I said, trying to return the book to her, "I'm not up to any mental challenges today."

"Trust me, Dad," she said, trying to be tactful and refusing to take back the book at the same time, "people like you, who, you know, think they have all the answers, well, they really need to read this book."

The Introduction to The Book of Questions states, "Here is an enjoyable way to find out more about yourself and others. To respond to these questions, you will need to examine and interpret your past, project yourself into hypothetical situations, face difficult dilemmas, and make painful choices. These questions can be an avenue for individual growth, a tool for deepening relationships, a quick way to get to know a stranger, or merely a pleasant amusement."

So, with the words 'pleasant amusement' in mind, here are just a few of the book's 300-plus questions and some of the answers I came up with to annoy my daughter.

#6: You discover your wonderful one-year-old child is, because of a mixup at the hospital, not really yours. Would you want to exchange the child to try to correct the mistake?" Answer: No. I've already tried on numerous occasions to convince hospital officials that at least two of my kids must belong to someone else, but so far, no one has been able to verify any mixups.

#9: Would you accept $100,000 to leave the country and never set foot in it again? Answer: Shortly after the O.J. Simpson verdict was announced, I would have taken $1.98.

#10: Have you ever wished you were of the opposite sex? Answer: All the time -- until those contraction things start.

#11: You are given the power to make people disappear simply by twice repeating the word, "good-bye." Are there any situations in which you would use this power?" Answer: Absolutely not, now that I'm no longer on the school board.

#16: If at birth you could select the profession your child would eventually pursue, would you do so and what would it be? Answer: Yes, and I'd want him or her to someday be the builder and sole proprietor of the most luxurious old folks home in the Bahamas.

#34: What was your most enjoyable dream? Answer: It's this one I used to have all the time when I was about 13-years-old. Much like Gilligan and The Skipper, I was stranded on this beautiful island way out in the Pacific, and by some incredible stroke of youthful luck, it turned out that the place was crawling with gorgeous women who absolutely refused to wear any clothes. The details are a tad vague after all these years, but I do remember my mother threatening to disown me if I didn't start dreaming about something else.

#37: What was your worst experience with alcohol? Answer: That one's easy. It was when a high school friend and I decided it would really be cool to take a couple of girls we knew to a drive-in and serve them all the Slow Gin they could drink, only to have them end up hanging their heads out the windows and throwing-up all over my brand new paint job.

#65: When you tell a story, do you often exaggerate or embellish it? Answer: Me? Never!

#70: When did you last yell at someone? Answer: Just last week, when I ordered one of my beloved students out of the room because the sweet young thing kept whistling during what was supposed to be 15 minutes of silent reading. As she passed my desk, she mumbled under her breath something which sounded a lot like, 'Screw you, old man'. 'Hey,' I yelled at her as she exited the room, 'don't be calling me an old man!'

#112: If you were at a friend's house for Thanksgiving dinner and you found a dead cockroach in your salad, what would you do? Answer: I'd scream, "There's a damn cockroach in my salad!"

#115: If you could change any one historical event, which one would it be? Answer: I would have never let Sirhan Sirhan into that kitchen.

#116: How many different sexual partners have you had in your life? Answer: Let's see, since I'm married, and since my wife always reads this paper, I would say that number is approximately one.

#134: Would it disturb you much if, upon your death, your body were simply thrown into the woods and left to rot? Answer: Actually, my kids have already guaranteed me just such a funeral if I don't stop writing about them in this column.

#140: Would you like to know the precise date of your death? Answer: Only if it has been scheduled for sometime after the year 2050.

#177: Is there anything anyone could have told you that would have made your first sexual experience better? Answer: Yes. Avoid sandy beaches.

The Smoot family heads off to cut a Christmas tree

T.J. Smoot

Ah, it was that time of the year again! Time for late night hot chocolate by the fire with the kiddos in bed, (time to doze off within minutes out of sheer exhaustion), time to pull out the yuletide memories from the closet and decorate our home. It was also time to acquire the centerpiece of this season, the Christmas tree! So one night after work and a quick dinner we packed up the Smoot family into the van and motored off. "Let's go to Rick's Tree Farm!" I said cheerfully! After a brief discussion of whether or not that was its real name and its whereabouts, we continued on and soon found ourselves speeding along a country highway just outside of town. No doubt our toddlers had visions of crunching through knee-deep snow piled high around hundreds of trees, with Daddy Smoot brushing off the boughs laden with the white stuff to inspect and select the perfect tree. By his side, Mommy Smoot dutifully comments on each prospective specimen. Both tiny Smoots are in perfect obedience, gently tossing snowballs at distant objects. In the background "Jingle Bells" plays as more snow gently falls. But in real life there was no snow to be seen, and back in the van we turned the corner and headed down the country road. Suddenly we spied the tree farm sign. Oooga! Oooga! All stop! The sign said "Open 9 to 5," and it was well after six. Toddler Smoot's winterland dreams were instantly popped as we sat in a stupor. Little Smoots started to whimper as reality set in. "Must be a write-off," I mumbled. "Let's go to Raley's. We can buy a tree along with some eggs and onions."

Well instead of shopping, we decided to cruise the neighborhood looking for Christmas lights. Along the way we had an excited discussion about the words in "Jingle Bells." I wondered what a "one horse-hofen slay" was and argued that the words are "bells on Bob's tail ring," (See, the horse's name was Bob.) Mrs. Smoot said it was "bobtail." Now she's usually right on stuff like this, but since she's never been in one-horse hofen slay, I'll keep my own counsel on this one. It was our unbiased, objective opinion that the houses in the States streets subdivision had the best lights, especially those three houses on Stone Blvd around Delaware street. Earlier in the week we ran into a guy living in that area who has a big Santa Claus train on display in his front yard. He gets my vote for the best Christmas spirit because he has to store the whole contraption in his shed all year except for four weeks. Let's see, that's 48 divided by 52 or 92.30769 percent of the time the Santa train is in storage. That's true commitment.

I'm sure Rick's Tree Farm (or whatever its name is) is now open 24 hours, but I got our tree elsewhere and brought it home. It seems like every year I forget that I have to trim the bottom couple of inches off the trunk for optimum water consumption. It turns out our tree had a trunk the size of my leg, so I grabbed my keyhole saw and made short work of it. A quick 45 short minutes, two aching upper extremities, and a blister on my index finger later, I had cut off precisely around two or so inches of tree trunk. I did have some help from a big chunk of concrete and a screwdriver, but those kinds of details are boring and shouldn't be printed.

The tree is now trimmed, Handel's "Messiah" is more frequently heard around Smoot Castle, and as soon as I can untangle 5,000 tiny lights, we'll have outdoor lights to keep us in the festive mood!

May you experience the grace and peace this season brings!

The current exhibit at the Arthur Turner Library (1212 Merkley Avenue in West Sacramento), which depicts three groups of woodcut prints about the Ukraine, will remain on display through January 31.

The first group tells the story of the people from the beginning, the patriarch and the tasks that the people performed; for instance, the grandfather makes shingles, the mother grinds the grain, the father mows the field, the daughter washes the clothes in the stream, the son tends the sheep, everyone contributed to the well-being of the group. The second group of prints shows the seasons of the Carpathian Mountains, Ukraine: spring, summer, autumn and winter. The third group of prints illustrates the main events in the history of the Ukrainian people.

The prints are dramatic in black and white design. Vasil Madzelan, the artist, now living in Cazadera, California, was born in Pennsylvania but went to Ukrainian Carpathian Mountains in Poland as a young child and he remained until he was a young man when he returned to the States and joined the army.

A reception is planned to honor the artist on January 6, 1996, from 2 to 5 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend the reception.

The exhibit can be viewed during regular library hours: Monday between 12 and 8 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday between 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.; and Friday and Saturday between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

RC boys' basketball plays lukewarm, drops two of three in tournament

By Chuck Robinson

The River City High School varsity boys did not play the basketball they are capable of playing last week; they were definitely not the same team that played in the Argonaut tournament.

In the first game they really struggled to beat Justin Sienna, 59 to 57. Andrew Odor led with 23 points, 9 rebounds, 1 three-pointer; Don Golaway, 10 points, 5 rebounds, 3 assists; Zerguy Maazouddin, 10 points, 4 rebounds, 2 three-pointers; Bruce Sweeten, 8 points, 4 rebounds, 5 assists; Mark Munsinger, 6 points, 7 rebounds, 4 blocked shots; and Senh Saelee, 2 points.

On Friday night, R.C. lost to Napa 65 to 55. Munsinger led with 17 points, 11 rebounds; Odor, 12 points, 5 rebounds, 2 three-pointers; Golaway, 11 points, 4 rebounds; Sergei Mysin, 5 points, 3 rebounds; Maazouddin, 3 points; Brian Sidhu, 3 points; Ghamai Mashriqui and Saelee, 2 points each.

On Saturday night the Raiders lost to Rancho Cotate 61 to 51. Saelee led with 13 points; Goloway, 12 points, 10 rebounds; Sweeten, 11 points, 3 three-pointers; Odor, 7 points, 9 rebounds, 1 three-pointer; Mashriqui, 4 points; Sidhu, 3 points; and Will Welcher, 1 point.

This week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the Raiders will play in the Folsom tournament. The next home game will be on Monday, December 18, against Mesa Verde. Game time is 5:30 and 7:00 p.m.

J.V.'s in Amador Tournament

River City's junior varsity boys basketball team played real well in a Round Robin tournament. They lost their first game to Bear River by a score of 57 to 56. R.C. beat Wilton Christian in the second game, 79 to 31. R.C. beat Amador 73 to 43 in their third game.

Five weeks ago, the 49ers were 5-4 after losing back-to-back games to New Orleans and Carolina.

Here we are going into week 16 of the NFL season and the 49ers have gained the edge in the race for the home field advantage in the NFC playoofs. The 49ers took revenge on Carolina with a 31-10 payback victory last Sunday, and the once comfortable Dallas Cowboys lost to the Eagles when Philly kicked a 42-yard field goal in the closing minutes of their 20-17 upset. The 49ers have not clinched a playoff spot yet, but with an Atlanta loss next week or a victory on Monday night against Minnesota, the 49ers are in!

Dallas has clinched a playoff berth.

49ers 31, Vikings 10.

Across the Bay, the Oakland Raiders are having big problems. Jeff Hostetler should be able to return at QB in an attempt to salvage their playoff hopes. The Raiders (8-6) have lost four games in a row!

The Raiders have scored two offensive touchdowns in the past 12 quarters!

Oakland travels to play Seattle (7-7), which can make the playoffs with a victory over the Raiders.

Look for a close game. Oakland 24, Seattle 21.

The Sacramento Kings (13-5) remain in first place in the Pacific Division. The Kings lost Friday to Seattle, 120-103, but beat Miami on Sunday. Top draft choice Corliss Williamson made his pro debut against Miami and responded with 14 points.

The Kings play Houston at home on Tuesday night, but then travel to Texas for back-to-back games against Houston and San Antonio starting Friday night on Channel 31, 5:30 p.m.

See ya next week!!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

If historic trees are worth saving, let's do it right

Did you know West Sacramento has a tree ordinance, to protect trees that are "landmarks" or large specimens of native oak species?

According to the ordinance, the city (like many others in California) recognizes that these trees contribute to the natural beauty of the town, help moderate the hot weather in the summer and generally improve the beauty of the town.

Decades in the making, these trees can be cut down in a few hours, and are not easily replaceable.

So, unless the trees are dead or ill, or they pose a hazard or an economic nuisance to the property owner, they cannot be cut without a permit.

Although strict property rights advocates may have a problem with this policy, it is a good one.

The problem is in the implementation of this policy, which is now in the hands of the city's parks and community services director.

Once a property owner files for a permit application to remove such a tree, the decision is made to grant or deny that permit essentially in secret. The public finds out that a permit was granted to remove a favorite tree on a neighbor's property when they see it lying in ruins; as so much firewood.

Should they then choose to contest the reasons for granting a permit to cut the tree, it is too late. The tree is gone.

What this means is that, unless the city opts to independently investigate a property owner's claims that a tree is dead, or is a hazard, or is an undue burden on the property's commercial uses, those claims will be accepted and a permit to cut will be granted.

There is no chance for the public to offer another view -- a view which might preserve a historic tree or a landmark tree or an old, native oak.

Why do we do it this way? If we truly care enough about keeping West Sacramento a city of trees, and preserving as many as possible of the city's largest ones, then why not put some checks and balances into the system?

Why not require the tree cutting permits to be ratified by the city planning commission, so that they appear on a public agenda before they are approved, and give the rest of us a chance to eyeball the decision before it happens?

Exemptions from the permit process will still be available -- as they are now -- for a property owner to act swiftly if a tree poses an immediate safety hazard.

But as it now stands, the city's tree ordinance is virtually toothless. If we, as a community, truly do not feel strongly about tree preservation, then let's scrap the ordinance and cut the red tape.

If we do wish the preservation of landmark and historic trees to be a city priority, then let's do it right.

Letters to the Editor

News-Ledger confused

You're confused about "A pretty good use of redevelopment agency money" (11/22/95). The Pharaohs of ancient Egypt used their redevelopment powers to put the pyramids in the desert. It put a lot of people to work and used some tax dollars. It created a terrific attraction for that area.

America is different from ancient Egypt because Americans are supposed to be free, not slaves. If Raley's, McCuen Properties, and the Money Store want to build something, let them use their own money to buy the land. Return the redevelopment funds to those from whom the funds were taken.

Some people wonder why development is slow in West Sacramento. Our experience in Southport has been that the process for approvals and permits is very difficult.

Bus schedules

On December 5, the Yolo County Transit Authority/YoloBus held a public hearing during which they proposed:

1) Reducing the 8 midday #39 runs to four runs -- two just before noon and two just after noon;

2) No more #39 service north of West Capitol Avenue. The timing of this proposed cutback is puzzling since virtually all of West Sacramento's Yolo County service offices have just been consolidated and relocated just off Jefferson Blvd. -- north of West Capitol Avenue near Sonic Cable television and next to our new police department headquarters, when the latter is remodeled. Citizens needing social services are least likely (for financial reasons, mainly) to have their own vehicles. To create a location barrier by cutting out this sector of public transit makes as little sense as back when Social Security was moved from Merkley Avenue to its present Halyard Drive location;

3) No more #39/Southport/Saturday service;

4) The midday #39's would go into and come from downtown Sacramento, making three buses providing that stretch of service within five or ten minutes of one another (...why more duplication?)

5) Such action also results in cutting four runs to/from City Hall, creating hardships on those who live between Westacre Road/15th Street and Stone Blvd./City Hall, leaving nearly a four hour gap between p.m. runs. This limits access to/from City Hall and meetings therein.

To better serve the public, we should:

1) Continue part of #39 north loop so that it goes as far as Hobson and comes by county offices both ways as it now does...that would make more sense than a third bus going into town at these times;

2) Rather than "bunch up" those four #39's at midday, they should be offered every other hour, maintaining present range of #39's service;

3) The 6:09 and (what will be the) 9:09 p.m. #41 should be consolidated with #39's after/onto Park Blvd./Stone Blvd./Jefferson Blvd./Southport/15th Street, etc. for two later Southport runs (ten minutes each);

4) The #240 route should be changed so West Sacramentans are served to/from jobs in our Industrial Park and with "savings" from (2) above, we could provide bi-hourly service during midday, for jobs (including main post office) and local Social Security office. The "cash-box fare-recovery ratio" should be high enough to warrant maintaining this service once riders are informed.

The above would result in a more cost-effective tightening of our financial belts and yes,...cause much better service at virtually no cost increase.

City Council will review the above at its 7 p.m. on December 13 and YoloBus will do so later this month.

For maintaining public transit service to and from our public service offices.

Home security tips for the holidays

From the West Sacramento Police Department

"Tis the Season to be Jolly," and burglars, muggers and pickpockets are jolly this time of year. This holiday season, don't let the spirit of giving lull you into giving crooks a better chance to do their dirty work. Crooks love the holidays as much as everyone else, but mainly because it's an opportune time for crime.

Here are some tips on how to celebrate safely this holiday season:

If you are traveling...

Make sure your home is protected while you are away. The key is to make it look like you never left.

Put timers on several household lights and a radio or television so they turn off and on at appropriate times your lights and a radio or television on a timer.

Make sure all your door and window locks are in working order -- and use them. Activate your home alarm.

Ask your neighbor to watch your home, park in the driveway from time to time, keep your lawns mowed and make sure the house looks lived in.

Don't forget to have the mail and newspaper delivery stopped or have your neighbor pick them up. If it piles up it is a sure sign you are gone.

If you are out shopping...

Stay alert and be aware of what's going on around you.

Park in a well-lighted space, and be sure to lock the car, close the windows, and hide shopping bags and gifts in the trunk.

Avoid carrying large amounts of cash; pay with a check or credit card whenever possible.

Deter pickpockets and purse-snatchers. Don't overburden yourself with packages. Be extra careful with purse's and wallets. Carry a purse close to your body, not dangling by the straps. Put a wallet in an inside coat or front pants pocket.

Shopping with kids? Teach them to go to a store clerk or security guard if separated.

All school district phone numbers will change effective January, 1996

From the Washington Unified School District

Beginning January 2, 1996, the Washington Unified School District will be changing all telephone numbers at all district facilities. This change is required in order for Pacific Telephone to install a CENTREX telephone system that will interconnect all school facilities.

Please note the new main telephone numbers for each school site and program. These numbers will be published in the 1996 Pacific Telephone Directory, which will be distributed at the end of January by Pacific Telephone.

Anyone who calls the old telephone number during the month of January will be automatically connected to the new number. After February 1, anyone calling the old number will get a recording informing them of the new number instead of being automatically connected.

The actual CENTREX installation will be done during the week of December 26 through December 31 at all sites when school is out of session to minimize disruption. Installing the CENTREX system with accompanying voice mail capability will not only be a great cost savings, but will provide far greater direct staff accessibility to the public and enable the district to operate more efficiently.

There are over 120 telephone numbers throughout the district that will be affected by this change. We apologize for any temporary inconvenience that the public may experience during this transition and we appreciate your patience and understanding.

Centrex telephone numbers effective January 2, 1996, at Washington Unified School District facilities are as follows:

Alyce Norman Elementary, 375-7650; Bryte Elementary, 375-7660; Elkhorn Elementary, 375-7670; Evergreen Elementary, 375-7680; Golden State Middle School, 375-7700; River City High School, 375-7800; Westfield Elementary, 375-7720; Westmore Oaks Elementary, 375-7730; and Yolo Alternative Education Center, 375-7740.

Also, California School Employees Association, 375-7600; Categorical Programs Office Direct Line, 375-7625; Children's Center, 375-7640; Consolidated Programs, 375-7635; District Office Switchboard, 375-7600; Even Start, 375-7630; FELP Family English Literacy Program, 375-7634; Food Service Direct Line, 375-7624; MOT Direct Line, 375-7690; Preschool Programs, 375-7645; Printshop, 375-7615; S.O.S. BAYSIDE from p. 1 the bridge is complete -- now hoped for mid-1997. Pacing of construction will partly depend on the still-struggling real estate market.

"It doesn't happen very quickly," he said. "It would be very favorable for a builder to be involved in a project where they're selling three or four homes a week. 15 or 20 homes per month would be very aggressive."

Stroud said that he hopes to have several different builders constructing portions of the project.

The north area of the development includes medium density development, with close to seven units per acre, said planner Rikala. The other half of the residential development will be on larger lot sizes.

The project "exceeds" requirements of the Southport Framework Plan for through-block pedestrian and bike trails, and for recreation areas, said Rikala. A series of streets with cul de sacs radiate from the town core, encouraging pedestrian and bike travel with paths placed where roads end, added Patek.

"One of the things Davis and his designers really captured was the whole principal of the pedestrian village, where it is very easy for any resident to walk from any area of the subdivision to the core," Patek commented. "All the streets flow to the core."

By gaining a map approval before 1995 expires, the Gainsborough partners will save over $600 per acre in environmental fees. To make up for the loss of environmental habitat to the Swainson's Hawk and other animals by purchasing off-site preserves of land, developers will be required to pay about $2,600 per acre in mitigation fees next year. Currently, the fees stand at $1,995 per acre.

Having discussed the project at its workshop last week, the West Sacramento planning commission is set to consider its approval Dec. 21.

Miller added that students who came to schools Tuesday morning were sent home again, but none were discharged until a parent or guardian was found.

Elsewhere about town, Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department reported plenty of nuisances caused by the weather, but no tragedies.

"Trees are down and there's a lot of wind damage," he said late Tuesday afternoon. "But most of the flooding has receded. The situation is taxing the resources of PG & E, the fire department and our department to the limit., as we have to respond to all these problems."

Fat?
Sick and Tired?

So was I. Overweight, suffering from chronic fatigue, experiencing hair loss, anxiety resulting in heart palpitations, and poor diet attached to a high stress work environment, blah, blah, blah. . . (Sound familiar?)

Well, today I have lost over 50 lbs., I weigh what I did as a high school junior nearly 18 years ago, the hair loss has stopped, the heart problems have ceased, my diet has greatly improved, and I no longer experience the high stress in virtually the same line of business.

This may not work for everyone, but if you want to know how to get off the track to a short life-span and one that may add years to a more productive and healthier life, simply call (800) 836-9180. I will send you a free tape, and personally return your call.

I wouldn't be offering this product to you if I hadn't used it for over 1 1/2 years and believed in it myself.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice for the filing of an inventory and appraisal of state assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. 'Lights on for Life' while driving

As part of a statewide effort to curtail drinking and driving, the California Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) is sponsoring "Lights On For Life," a one-day observance in memory of those who have been killed and injured in alcohol-related crashes.

The West Sacramento Police Department is joining thousands of police, sheriff and highway patrol officers statewide who will drive with their vehicle headlights on all day Friday, December 15, in a symbolic remembrance of those who have been killed or injured by impaired drivers. It is also a reminder to Californians that law enforcement will be out in force this holiday season to catch those individuals that choose to drive while impaired.

West Sacramento businesses, government agencies, individuals and community groups are encouraged to support "Lights On For Life" by driving with their headlights on as well.

"Lights On For Life" sends a positive message to the community and reminds the public that during the holidays, law enforcement will be cracking down on those who choose to drink and drive and place innocent people's lives in jeopardy. Chief Larry Gore says, "I encourage all West Sacramento motorists to take a stand against impaired driving and join us by turning their "Lights On For Life" on Friday, December 15."

Son of local couple returns to San Diego on aircraft carrier

Navy petty officer 2nd class Kenneth R. Cleversy, son of Ronald and Reba Carlander of West Sacramento, has returned to San Diego after completing a six-month overseas deployment aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Chancellorsville, which included duty in the Persian Gulf near Iraq.

Cleversy is one of 400 sailors aboard the ship who completed the more than 35,000-mile voyage as part of the 5th fleet in the Middle East. While in the Persian Gulf, Cleversy helped enforce the international embargo against Iraq by conducting maritime interception of merchant ships suspected of violating the agreement. USS Chancellorsville crew members questioned 25 ships, boarded three and diverted one.

The 1985 graduate of Gulfport High School off Gulfport, Miss., joined the Navy in September of 1985.
